

Amanda Andrews | Full Stack Web Developer

After a fulfilling career in education, where I honed my skills in communication, problem-solving, and adaptability, I decided to transition into web development. To formalize my knowledge I enrolled in a coding bootcamp. I am excited about the opportunities in web development, where I can combine my love for technology with my ability to communicate effectively and solve problems creatively. My goal is to contribute to innovative projects that make a positive impact, much like I did in my teaching career.
